May Grand Jury Gives Its Report To County Judge

Five Open Indictments Are Handed Up by Held Over Jurors

The May grand jury which has been held in session during the summer in order to handle grand jury cases which come up during the summer recess of court, made another partial report to County Judge John M. Cashin this morning.

There were five open indictments reported, two dismissals and one sealed indictment.

District Attorney Louis G. Brubaker moved for exoneration of the two cases in which no bill was returned. The dismissals were:

The People vs. Glenford Sheeley, illegal possession of firearms and The People vs. Michael Joseph O'Connor, assault, second degree, arising out of the alleged shooting of another boy with an air rifle.

Clement Burger of Kingston was arraigned on a charge of assault, second degree, alleged to have been committed on June 26, last, in town of Saugerties. It is alleged he became involved with a town of Saugerties girl, Chris J. Flanagan, appeared for defendant and a plea of innocent was entered. Bail was set at $2,500. Twenty days granted to make further motions by counsel.

Donald W. Hynier, Albany, was arraigned on a charge of carnal abuse, alleged to have been committed on June 18, last. William A. Kelley appears for the defendant. A plea of innocent was entered and 20 days granted to make further motions. Defendant recommended.

Everett Wootton, charged with grand larceny, first degree, growing out of the alleged failure to pay for building materials bought in town of Marlborough last November 26, entered a plea of innocent. Eli Miller of Danbury, Conn., appears for defendant. The indictment is found under a provision of the lien law which brings the act under the grand larceny statute.

James T. McElroy, charged with forgery, second degree, growing out of the alleged forging of checks in Highland and Marlborough on October 5, 1948 and April 25, 1949, entered a plea of innocent to the ten counts in the indictment. He had no attorney and no funds to engage one. Chris J. Flanagan was assigned by the court. Twenty days were allowed to make further motions. Defendant recommended to jail.

Michael Schmidt of New York, charged with grand larceny, second degree, alleged to have been committed on July 5, 1949, when a sum of money was missing from the Four Corners Tavern at Catskill, pleaded innocent to the charge. He had no counsel and Charles Saccoman was assigned. He was recommended to jail.

Richard Joseph Carey, Jr., of Kingston who allegedly stole a car and wrecked it against a fire hydrant in the city, entered a plea of guilty to the second count of the indictment, grand larceny, second degree. He was sentenced to a term of from one to two years at hard labor in Clinton State Prison. Execution of sentence was suspended during good behavior and he was placed on probation. Chris J. Flanagan appeared for the defendant. Trautwein has surrendered his driving license and Judge Cashin imposed a fine of $250 and gave a six months jail sentence. The jail sentence was suspended during

250 Guests Routed In Swan Lake Fire

Loss Estimated Between $70,000 and $100,000; Proprietor Is Hurt

Swan Lake, N. Y., July 29 (AP)—About 250 guests including 100 children, were forced to leave their quarters when the broke out in the Hotel Fieldston at 2 a. m. (E.S.T.) today.

Only one person, the proprietor, was reported injured. The main hotel building was destroyed at a loss estimated between $70,000 and $100,000.

Fire Chief Adolph Doenick of Liberty, who estimated the loss, said the fire was discovered in the kitchen by a party cook, who gave the alarm. Bell boys were called and they, accompanied by the owner, went through the halls of the three-story structure, knocking on the doors of guest rooms.

Hotel authorities said there was no panic and that all of the guests fled out of the building in orderly fashion. Some of them took their personal effects, but a large number lost practically all of their property.

The injured proprietor, Jack Levine, 40, was taken to Mahoning Hospital, at Liberty, suffering from shock, exposure and a severe cut on the right arm.

Liberty firemen were called to help the Swan Lake department. Doenick said the fire was believed to have started from an overheated motor.

Newly Swan Lake Hotel provided accommodation for all of the Fieldston guests who wished to remain. However, a number of

Business Session Is To Be Held Tonight; Peekskill Unit Will Parade

Food and entertainment were featured Thursday night as the 14th annual convention of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association got under way in this city.

Tonight delegates buckle down to the business session and speeches Saturday afternoon the convention reaches its climax with the three-mile-long parade mainly for the benefit of the spectators. But last night the program was designed purely for the pleasure of the approximately 1,000 volunteers attending the gathering.

Baked ham suppers were served at four local churches to about 550 of them. St. James Methodist, St. Paul's Lutheran, Clinton Avenue Methodist and the First Baptist Churches were the hosts and comments heard from all sides indicate the food was plentiful and well prepared.

After dinner, the members gathered at the municipal auditorium for the seven-act entertainment arranged by Harry A. Shen, New York city entertainment consultant.

Harry Malsenholder and his seven-piece orchestra provided lively accompaniment for the acts, which were complimented by the entertainers for the excellence of the job despite the fact that, except for a very brief interval immediately before the show, the orchestra had not rehearsed with the entertainers.

The audience was completely mystified by the team of the Great DeLage and Shirley, their magic An Improved version of the old trick of a woman placed in a trunk which is then pierced with many swords was apparently most baffling to the spectators.

Roy Sedley was master of ceremonies and was assisted in presenting some interludes by Edie Lord, Prince Harry, International pickpocket Jim Pennman, juggler, Joan Barry, acrobatic dancer, and Shelia Ryan and Lady Victoria, dancers, were well received.

Collette Ellsworth, singer and accordionist who had a large part during the show, did a public display by appearing a half hour ahead of the scheduled starting time. Announcing, "I am the overture," Miss Ellsworth took out her accordion and soon had the group singing many old, familiar tunes. Several times she called for talent from the audience and one who responded, Al Nicholas, a member of the High Falls Fire Co., and employee of the Central

Police to Reroute Traffic During Firemen's Parade

Acting Chief Roedell Gives Orders; Parking Ruled Out in Some Areas

Main artery traffic will be rerouted through the city off Broadway during tomorrow's firemen's parade and parking will be prohibited on sections of Broadway during the afternoon. Capt. William T. Roedell, who is acting police chief in the absence of Chief Raymond VanBuren, announced today.

No cars will be allowed to park from Chester to McEntee street from 1 to 6 p. m., and parking will also be prohibited from Andrew to O'Reilly street from noon until after the parade, Capt. Roedell said.

Signs and directional arrows will be placed to assist police in directing traffic through the city and Capt. Roedell said he felt that prohibiting parking particularly on the narrow section of Broadway from Chester to McEntee street, will relieve a traffic bottleneck.

Traffic coming off the bridge from lower Route 9W will be rerouted starting at about 2:45 p. m. over Abel street to Davis street to Wilbur avenue to Greenkill avenue, and at that point continued Route 9W traffic will be directed west over Wall street to St. James where it will go north to Albany avenue.

Traffic headed for Routes 209 and 28 will go over the same route as far as Greenkill avenue where it will be directed into Washington avenue and out of the city over Hurley avenue to 209 and the Washington avenue viaduct for Route 28, the Ontario Trail.

A large sign will be erected at the Rondout creek bridge to direct traffic. Others will be erected at Greenkill and Wilbur avenues, Greenkill avenue and Wall street and at St. James and Wall street. The directional arrows will be placed along the detour routes at intervals.

Officers stationed at the important detour intersections will be instructed as to the time necessary for heading traffic away from Broadway and the parade area.

Traffic coming from Routes 28 and 209 and headed for lower Route 9W will be rerouted over Washington and Greenkill avenues, and through the Wilbur route to the bridge. That coming from north 9W will head into St. James street and over Wall street to the Wilbur route out of the city.

State to Ask Crossing Bids as Work Goes On

Maragon Is Rated 'Hot' As Witness

One-Time Bootblack Is Heard by Committee Probing 5 Percenters in Capital

'Nothing to It'

Time, He Says, Might Develop Interesting Testimony

Washington, July 29 (AP)—The secret testimony of a fast-talking White House visitor quizzed in the "five percenters" inquiry was rated "plenty hot stuff" today by a senator's source.

The witness who gave the sworn testimony is Dapper John Maragon, a one-time bootblack who now, he says, calls many top government officials and Congress members by their first names. He listed President Truman's military aide Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, as one of his good friends.

Maragon last yesterday spent more than an hour behind closed doors with senators investigating allegations of the use of influence in the awarding of government contracts.

"We got some plenty hot stuff from Maragon, it was interesting," said a person thoroughly familiar with what went on at the hush-hush session. Maragon himself said that "honest, there is nothing in it yet." He added, "There may be in a couple of weeks."

At first Maragon flatly denied that he had been before the Senate's Special Investigations Subcommittee an hour and a half later he acknowledged that he had testified. He dictated this statement to reporters at the Capitol last night.

"When on July 20 I read Dew Pearson's column accusing me of being a five percenter, I proceeded immediately to the office of Senator Karl Mundt of South Dakota, a member of the investigations subcommittee, and asked the senator to read the charge contained in the column.

I then requested of Senator Mundt that in view of the charge, I be heard by the committee as soon as possible.

Today the committee received my testimony in executive session.

The term five percenter has been applied to persons who charge a fee for help in getting government contracts for others.

"Undoubtedly General Vaughan has thousands of good friends," Maragon replied. "I am fortunate enough to be one of them."

He refused to say whether Vaughan was mentioned at the secret session. Vaughan has said he knows about 300 persons in Washington in contract operations.

Maragon did say his testimony "dealt with my own business affairs and no one else's." He refused to go into detail.

Maragon has had a fabulous career, starting as a bootblack in Kansas City after coming to this country from the island of Malta, where he was born about 50 years ago. It was in Kansas City that he first met Mr. Truman.

During the days Mr. Truman was a senator from Missouri, Maragon was a familiar figure around the Capitol. He then was a commercial representative for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and one of his jobs was to obtain tickets for members of Congress.

When Mr. Truman first became President, Maragon was a frequent visitor at the White House. Later the President reportedly issued instructions which resulted in the revocation of Maragon's White House pass and his auto-parking privileges there.

However, newsmen assigned to the White House still see him there occasionally. He is said to be cleared through a side entrance, usually by Vaughan.

Fleischmanns Auto Is Found Wrecked at West Hurley

An automobile reported stolen from Fleischmanns at 11 p. m. Thursday was found badly damaged off Route 28 at West Hurley at 3 a. m. today, state police reported.

The automobile, a 1946 Dodge sedan owned by Isaac Fleishman of Fleischmanns, was left by its unknown driver after it had plunged off the highway and into a ditch, state police said.

Investigation which is being conducted by state police at Lake Katine with the assistance of the sheriff's office has disclosed several circumstances which may have a bearing on the case.

Shortly after the automobile was discovered G. Alfred Newbaum of West Hurley reported to the sheriff's office that three men were at his home and had made inquiry about how to get to a hospital. Deputy Sheriff John Crispino was dispatched to the Newbaum home, but on his arrival the three persons had already left without identifying themselves.

At 4:20 a. m. a man was admitted to Kingston Hospital with injuries, apparently suffered in an accident, state police learned. The injured man was not badly hurt and his condition was reported as "good" by hospital authorities this morning.

There was also a report received that a man had been treated for injuries by Dr. Hans Cohn of Woodstock early this morning, state police said. Investigation of this and the other reports is continuing, but so far nothing has been definitely established which would connect the reports conclusively with the theft of the automobile.

The overnight low was 73 as against 75 on the previous day.

Heat Wave Takes 27 Lives In Eastern Cities in July

(By The Associated Press)

Deaths from effects of a late July heat wave mounted today, with at least 27 fatalities in eastern cities. No immediate break in the hot and humid weather was in sight for the area.

But some relief came to parts of the Midwest. A mass of fresh Canadian cool air moving southward brought lower temperatures into the upper Mississippi and Missouri valleys. It headed eastward into Michigan and the northern parts of Illinois and Indiana.

But the outlook for further movement of the cool air into the sweltering east and south is not good, Federal Weather Bureau forecasters said. They promised another day of hot and sticky weather for most of the eastern and southern sections of the country.

Temperatures—in the 90s over most of the area from the Rockies to the Atlantic Coast for the last week—hit record marks for the day in several cities yesterday. Readings of 100 were common throughout New England. Boston's 99 was a record for July 28.

Nine persons died in Washington from the heat as the Capital baked in 96 degree temperatures. Some 83,000 Federal and District of Columbia Government employees were sent home early because of the oppressive heat.

The hot weather claimed the lives of five persons in Pennsylvania as the heat wave extended for the 11th day. Philadelphia's top mark was 95 and it was 92 in Pittsburgh and Harrisburg. New York State also reported

General Job Contract Is Main Task

Public Works Official Says New York Is Anxious to Commence Project Soon

Hoffman to Start

Demolition Contractor Is to Start Soon on 16 Buildings

The New York State Public Works Department will probably advertise for bids on the general contract for the elimination of the Broadway crossing as soon as the demolition of the first 16 buildings is "well underway," a department official said today.

This contract which will be for the main construction work will also include a demolition project for 13 other buildings in the area.

The official said that "every effort is being made by the state to get the job under contract this year," but the time will not be determined until some of the buildings are "out of the way."

Meanwhile, it could not be determined today whether Frank Hoffman, of Pleasant Valley, who has the contract to raze 16 of the buildings, will get started Monday or a week later.

Hoffman said yesterday that he planned to get started next Monday or on the following Monday, but the Poughkeepsie district office of the state public works department had not been notified today that the work would begin Aug. 1.

The contractor said he would complete the first demolition work within two or three months and that the deadline is Dec. 31.

James S. Bixby, district engineer at Poughkeepsie, will be in charge of the project.

Employment Decline Not Held Critical

Philadelphia, July 29 (AP)—The current decline in employment is not critical, says the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia.

In a midday analysis of business conditions, the bank said yesterday recession from postwar peaks has been "orderly and for the most part beneficial."

The report said some communities have been hard hit by unemployment but added:

"Still 60,000,000 people are at work and the general situation does not approach a crisis."

Recent declines in employment, production and income have taken the edge off consumer spending but it is no surprise to the bank.

"But insofar as we can tell," the report said, "people's saving habits of last year are continuing into 1949."

The report predicted labor unions will be influential in shaping future events and that wholesale wage-cutting, such as was practiced in the early 1920s and '30, is a thing of the past.

Victim of Gangsters

Darien, Conn., July 29 (AP)—Police sought today to establish the identity of a man who was brutally beaten shot to death and then dumped into Long Island Sound with heavy weights wired to his body.

"It apparently is a gangster murder and certainly one of vengeance," said Police Lieut. Frank J. Standing. The man's nude body was found yesterday about a mile off Long Island here by the crew of the fishing boat Tapon. A section of steel "I" beam was attached to each thigh, and a heavy iron vice was wired about the waist. The body had not been in the water "very long," the police lieutenant said.

Economist Says Steel Can Afford To Pay More Wages

New York, July 29 (AP)—A one-time New Deal economist today pictured the steel industry as a highly profitable one that can easily afford to pay more money to its workers.

Robert R. Nathan, former War Production Board official, appeared as the third witness for the C.I.O. United Steelworkers before the three-man panel named by President Truman to try to avert a steel strike.

Nathan's presentation was loaded with statistics presented to the fact-finders by means of large charts.

"The annual rate of earnings of 19 leading companies in the steel industry in the first quarter of 1949," he told the board, "were approximately $800,000,000 after taxes, which were far above 1948, nearly double the 1946-48 average, and two and one-half times the average of the war years."

But, he declared, "the steel worker has not shared appreciably in the profitability of the steel industry."

"The buying power of hourly rates of pay of production workers in the steel industry increased by one-seventh between 1939 and 1949, whereas productivity per man hour rose by 50 per cent over the decade."

"The industry was disinclined to pass on any significant portion of the benefits of greater efficiency to its employees in the form of increased purchasing power or to its consumers in the form of lower prices."

President Philip Murray of the union disclosed to the Presidential Board yesterday that the steel workers are demanding a 30-cent an hour package, including 12 1/2 cents for wages.

Nathan said that "under June,

1949, cost and price conditions," the industry could pay 20 cents an hour more while spending at 90 per cent capacity and still make the "phenomenal profit" which he said it earned in the first quarter of this year.

Under the same cost and price conditions and with operations at 80 per cent of capacity, he said the industry could pay 10 cents an hour more and "earn the same high level of profits as in 1948."

Steel industry officials have said that the operating level of the companies is declining rapidly and in some cases has dropped below 80 per cent of capacity.

Nathan conceded that "profits of most industries have turned down in 1949," but he said the steel industry nevertheless will show an all-time record in the first six months of this year.

The economist said that "sharply declining material costs" have helped steel to maintain high profits despite a fall in the operating level.

At today's session opened, Samuel I. Rosenthal, one of the board members, announced that the panel proposed to strike from the record the heated colloquy of yesterday afternoon in which Murray attacked steel industry leaders and some of the company spokesmen present.

Neither side objected and the remarks were expunged.

The board admonished Murray yesterday and then advised the participants to refrain from further name-calling.

Ovation for Shirley

London, July 29 (AP)—Blonde Shirley May France received a movie star's ovation today when she arrived to try to win the English Channel Flash bulb popped and reporters surrounded the pretty 16-year-old high school girl from Somerset, Mass., as she arrived at London's Waterloo station for Southampton. Her advisers—including her father, J. Walter France—have not decided where she will train. Two rivals of Shirley are training now at Dover. They are Philip Mickman, 18-year-old English schoolboy and Mrs. Willy Cross Van Rysel of Holland. Both already have made unsuccessful tries this month.

Refuses Reenactment

New York, July 29 (AP)—Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Murphy today refused to permit Martha Beck, alleged lonely hearts slayer, to reenact the scene which led to the death of Mrs. Janet Fay. Plumb Mrs. Beck, 20, and Raymond Fernandez, 34, are on trial on first degree murder charges in the bludgeoning-strangulation slaying of Mrs. Fay, 65, Albany, widow, last Jan. 4 at Valley Stream, N. Y. The state charged that Mrs. Beck bludgeoned the widow with a hammer and that Fernandez strangled her with a scarf.

14 Held in Raid

Maple Shade, N. J., July 29 (AP)—Fourteen men are being held in $3,000 bail each here today as a result of a gambling raid that netted 160 arrests. State police confiscated $40,000 here yesterday in a raid on a cement block building they said had been especially constructed for gambling purposes. Patrons were fined $20 each and released, but the 14 were held for the Burlington county grand jury on charges of aiding and abetting the maintaining of a gambling establishment.

Senators Approve

their formal acceptance next week.

Clark, 49-year-old Texas lawyer, would fill the court place left vacant by the death of Associate Justice Frank Murphy.

Moving into Clark's place as the nation's chief legal watchdog would be McGrath, 45-year-old chairman of the Democratic National Committee, former solicitor general and former governor of Rhode Island.

If arrangements can be made this week-end for appointment of his Senate successor, McGrath is expected to agree to accept the cabinet post.

Friends said that once he is confirmed, McGrath will resign as Democratic chairman. That would leave the post open for William M. Boyle, Jr., formerly of Kansas City, who has been serving as executive assistant at a $30,000 yearly salary.

Clark indicated in a statement that he is ready to take the court post.

Observing that the President had bestowed a great honor on him by offering the place, Clark said:

"It is with humility that I approach it. Such a position is the greatest challenge that can be placed before a lawyer. I hope I am worthy of the honor the President has paid me."

McGrath said he wants to talk to his family and friends in Rhode Island before he decides finally.

Involved was reported to be an understanding about his Senate successor. Most politicians think that if Gov. John C. Pastore doesn't want the place himself, he will be urged by McGrath to appoint Mayor Dennis J. Roberts of Providence.

Whoever is named is likely to serve until a special election in 1950. McGrath's term runs through 1952.

Despite his position as Democratic national chairman, the Rhode Island senator seemed likely to escape any serious criticism in Senate consideration of his appointment.

Whether Clark would get by without some harsh words remained in doubt. Chairman McGrath (D-Nev.) of the Senate Judiciary Committee, which will handle both nominations, has had some recent brushes with the attorney general.

Senator Kent (R-Mo.) criticized Clark in the 80th Congress for what he said was the attorney general's failure to prosecute vigorously Kansas City vote fraud cases.

Kent wouldn't comment on the possibility that he would renew his attack on the present cabinet member.

In any case, indications were the Senate will confirm the appointments within a relatively short time after they are sent to it officially.

Senator Kerr (D-Okla.) called them "fine appointments." "Both of them are good men," agreed Senator Sparkman (D-Ala.). House Speaker Rayburn, a fellow Texan, said Clark would make a "great justice."

On the Republican side, Minority Leader Wherry, of Nebraska said he believes both will be confirmed. Similarly, Senator Jenner (R-Ind.) said he knows of no Senatorial objection to either.

The President's action in linking the two jobs together was regarded generally on Capitol Hill as advance notice that if another Supreme Court vacancy occurs while he is in the White House McGrath can be expected to fill it.

Clark, a Presbyterian, was appointed to fill the only place on the present court that had been held by a Roman Catholic. Thus there will be no member of that faith represented if Clark is officially nominated and confirmed.

But McGrath, as a Catholic, steps into a high place in Mr. Truman's administration. And there seems little doubt that, if given the chance again, the President will want to put a Catholic on the court.

Mr. Truman told his news conference yesterday that he doesn't think the religious choice of an appointee had anything to do with the qualifications of a Supreme Court justice.

If a man is qualified, the President said he doesn't care whether he is a Catholic, a Baptist or a Jew.

Judge Medina Cuts Length Of Testimony by Defense

New York, July 29 (AP)—Federal Judge Harold R. Medina today began curbing the length of defense testimony in the Communist conspiracy trial.

The judge put a half-hour limit on the account given by a witness, Mrs. Yolanda Hall of Chicago, of a national Communist training school held in Chicago in 1945.

Medina acted after saying from the bench:

"I think I am from now on going to begin to curtail the expansiveness of this testimony or I'm afraid we'll never get through this trial."

The trial of 11 top Communist officials has been going on for six months and two weeks.

Medina left the bench yesterday for a brief rest, saying he was physically and mentally incapable of coping much longer with defense lawyers' "warring."

When the judge intervened today, Mrs. Hall was describing in detail the lectures given at the Chicago school.

Defense Counsel Richard R. Gladstein sought to question Medina about his announcement but the judge told him to remain silent.

"Object," Gladstein said, "to a ruling that prevents an attorney from raising."

"It is this suggestion of arguments that led to this," the judge interrupted. He then ordered the questioning of Mrs. Hall to proceed.

Mrs. Hall, who said she had been a Communist since 1939, testified that students at the Chicago school were taught that the rise of fascism and World War II opened new paths to socialism.

She quoted George Siskind, identified earlier as a teacher at the school, as saying "Now World War II had brought about many new conditions working to crush monopolies and that these were instituting democratic government and were moving toward socialism."

She said Siskind named Poland and Czechoslovakia among the countries with such movements.

Mrs. Hall, married and the mother of two daughters, testified yesterday that she was an organizer and later president of the C.I.O. United Automobile Workers' 3,000-member Local 330.

Opera Singer Sues For $500,000; Says Arrest Was False

Los Angeles, July 29 (AP)—Operatic Soprano Vivian Della Chiesa hit a high note in anger as she filed a $500,000 damage suit charging false arrest.

The singer, taken into custody on a warrant obtained by Concha V. Savage for an alleged unpaid debt, told the court yesterday it was the same old case of mistaken identity.

Two years ago the singer successfully maintained in court that she was not the Miss Della Chiesa, also known as Vrele Divo, to whom Miss Savage, a former voice teacher, loaned money 25 years ago. She obtained a restraining order against further prosecution.

Superior Court here ruled that any further action against Miss Della Chiesa would be construed as contempt of court. The singer is the wife of George Ellis, Connecticut businessman.

She contends she was taken from her hotel and forced to make bail to avoid being locked up in county jail.

P. H. DePew Dies; Prominent Republican

Nyack, N. Y., July 29 (AP)—Pierre Howell DePew, 60, attorney and prominent Republican leader in the southern Hudson Valley, died yesterday.

He had been a Nyack police judge since 1940 and was attorney for the New York State Tax Commission in Rockland county. In 1922 he was elected to the State Assembly from Rockland and in 1923 was defeated for the Assembly post by former Postmaster General James A. Farley.

DePew served on a National Republican Club committee for state and national affairs. A native of Nyack, he was a descendant of a 17th century Dutch colonial family which at one time owned the greater part of the present town of Nyack.

Ex-Sailor Kills Father-in-Law, Takes Own Life

Endicott, N. Y., July 29 (AP)—Thwarted in an attempt to kiss his estranged wife, a 20-year-old ex-sailor shot his father-in-law to death yesterday, wounded his wife, then killed himself.

Richard Corwin turned his German Mauser revolver on Orin D. Elklor, 41, as Elklor sat at the wheel of his automobile in the driveway of his home.

Corwin's 18-year-old wife, Louise Mae, was shot in the right arm as she ran from the car toward the rear of the house. Her condition was considered fair today in Ideal Hospital.

Neighbors said Elklor had pushed Corwin away when the former seaman tried to kiss his wife, mother of a seven-month-old baby.

Corwin died at his father-in-law's home at his side and then shot himself in the abdomen. Jane Weston, 17, of Endicott, who also was in the car, escaped injury.

Elklor had driven his daughter from Elmira, where she and Corwin had been living while he attended a veterans' school. Mrs. Corwin had not seen her husband since last Monday and was surprised when he appeared, she told police. Corwin apparently had been in Endicott, his home.

The young mother had decided to leave her husband, according to her mother.

Brown Proposes Punishment for Communist Agents

Buffalo, N. Y., July 29 (AP)—Perry Brown, national commander of the American Legion, declared today that the law should "recognize Communism as a conspiracy and provide appropriate punishment for its agents."

"After all," Brown said in a prepared speech at the Legion's 31st state convention, "this is not a problem to be handled by a congressional committee alone, and its solution will certainly not be found on the front pages of the nation's newspapers."

The extermination of Communism, he said, is one of the prime requirements in making the nation safe from within.

A small professional army, coupled with a large, well-trained reserve, he continued, is the way to insure safety from without—and at a cost the country can bear.

"The problem is how to build up these reserve components to the point where the regular, full-time services can be cut down. As long as the professionals have the say as to how and when this should be done, you can bet your boots it won't be done at all."

Brown urged support for the Legion-backed National Security Training bill, which provides for a civilian-administered military training program for youth.

School Is Burned

Woodbury, N. J., July 29 (AP)—The central school in nearby Deptford township was badly damaged by fire early today. A general alarm was sounded shortly after the blaze was discovered by residents living near the two-story elementary school building. Firemen from 12 surrounding communities responded but were unable to bring the flames under control until the interior of the structure had been destroyed. The cause of the blaze was not determined immediately.

Gov. Alexander Spotswood was partially responsible for the construction of the first ironworks in Virginia in 1716.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

The summer months have brought the expected cases of infantile paralysis. Four cases of poliomyelitis have been reported in Ulster County. In an effort to minimize the effects of polio in stricken areas, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis today has issued a list of precautionary measures to be observed by those in charge of children. There are five easy-to-follow health rules:

Avoid crowds and places where close contact with other persons is likely.

Avoid over-fatigue caused by too active play, or exercise, or irregular hours.

Avoid swimming in polluted water. Use only beaches or public pools declared safe by local health authorities.

Avoid sudden chilling. Remove wet shoes and clothing at once and keep extra blankets and heavier clothing handy for sudden weather changes.

Observe the golden rule of personal cleanliness. Keep food tightly covered and safe from flies or other insects. Garbage should be tightly covered and, if other disposal facilities are lacking, it should be buried or burned.

At the same time the National Foundation pointed out that early diagnosis and prompt treatment by qualified medical personnel often prevents serious crippling. It listed the following symptoms of infantile paralysis: headache, nausea or upset stomach, muscle soreness or stiffness, and unexplained fever.

The National Foundation warned against fear and anxiety where polio strikes. A calm, confident attitude is conducive to health and recovery. The National Foundation asks parents to remember that of all those stricken 50 per cent or more recover completely, while another 25 per cent are left with only slight after-effects.

Finally the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis stressed the importance of contacting its nearest chapter if polio is actually diagnosed. The National Foundation chapter in the community will pay that part of the cost of care and treatment which patient or family cannot meet.

STILL BITTER AT PRESS

President Truman is still taking some hefty swings at the big metropolitan newspapers which predicted his defeat almost universally in the 1948 election.

Everyone admitted from the moment of his victory that he had earned the right to gloat at the expense of the erring press.

But his latest remarks at Chicago suggest he may be rubbing it in a bit too hard on some points. Listen to this, for example: "I have never been in any bitter campaign when any metropolitan daily has been for me. I have no respect for any of their political prognostication or influence."

This comment ignores certain facts. Wrong as the press was in 1948, it has many times been extremely accurate in its election predictions. And that was true even before the days of public opinion polls, when forecasts stemmed mainly from a sampling of expert political views.

As was pointed out at the time, those papers that conducted these old-fashioned samplings last year fared no better than the ones that relied wholly on polls. For the experts, including Mr. Truman's own party leaders in many states, were as wrong as the polls.

It isn't fair of the President to suggest that the 1948 debacle was merely the most striking in a long list of failures by press forecasters. The record doesn't back him up.

A CHEAP GOOD MEAL

The Pennsylvania Railroad, trying to cut costs in dining cars, trimmed ounces off steaks, pared butter allotments, and still found itself in the red. Then it decided to go the other way, and offer diners a "cheap good meal".

It is now experimenting with a "salad bowl" meal. A good mixed salad with substantial rolls and a bit of cold meat or cheese ought indeed to fill the passenger up, as Fred Carpl, vice-president in charge of traffic, says it will, especially if it includes tea or coffee. The Pennsy may have made a great dis-

BIPARTISAN POLICY

The fight on Communism and Russian Imperialism in the United States cannot be viewed any longer as a partisan question. It is too fundamental. Even should Alger Hiss be acquitted in his second trial, the fact will still stand out like a sore thumb that someone, who had access to the inner sanctum of the State Department, took important documents from that office and gave them to Whitaker Chambers. That and the hushed-up Amerasia case prove, beyond doubt, an alien infiltration of our most important department of government for purposes of espionage by means of American citizens who were high officials.

Until it is established, beyond reasonable doubt and publicity, who did it and how it was done, this country is in peril. None of this has anything to do with Red Baiting or the Bill of Rights. Had the same conditions prevailed in relationship to Hitler or Mussolini or the Japanese, no one would speak about Fascist Baiting or the Bill of Rights. It would be regarded as a case of espionage, pure and simple.

The Russians and the Communists have the advantage, which they fully exploit, of the involvement of important Americans, including the leadership of the New Deal in their operations. No one can accuse Franklin D. Roosevelt or Eleanor Roosevelt or Felix Frankfurter of engaging in espionage for Soviet Russia. They may be—and from my standpoint, can be—accused of faulty judgment. The formal excuse for much of the confusion has been that at Tcheran, and even at Yalta, a bargain with Stalin was bargained to get Russia to open the Second Front against Japan. Stalin's terms were accepted and he was buttered up in the hope that he would end his neutrality in our Far Eastern war. Furthermore, it was feared that he might at any time during the war make a separate peace with Germany.

There is no need, in the year 1949, to continue this "grand design." Conditions today are not as they were in 1943. Covering up errors may be of some temporary advantage to individuals, but the truth has a way of coming out. For instance, last winter, I heard Robert P. Patterson, former secretary of war, say that the Morgenthau Plan was unimportant, that it influenced policy for only a short time and that it had no effect on JCS 1067, which was the controlling document on conquered Germany. I have investigated this statement over a period of many months, studying all the available documentation and discussing it with other students of the problem. I have found no one who agrees with Judge Patterson. I take it that what I heard him say was a pro-forma defense of an error.

That happens all the time. Some men feel that they must cover every action and idea of the Roosevelt administration, even those which history has proved to be errors of judgment and even historic crimes such as the Yalta agreements. It is possible for men to admit that, under certain circumstances, it was necessary for them to do what they did. But it is never sound to be so inflexible as to perpetuate errors out of pride of person or regard for a former chief.

Absolutely necessary at this time is a bipartisan policy on Communism in this country. The Democratic and Republican parties ought to unite not only in their opposition to current Communist activities but in clearing up the past. Never mind who was to blame. The thing to do is to clear it up. Some reputations will have to go. Some men will prove to have been poisoners. But what I heard him say was a pro-forma defense of an error.

A Democratic-Republican coalition will, save the situation. For instance, the nature of Judge Kaufman's conduct at the Alger Hiss trial is not such a matter as I am discussing in this article, but this much must be answered: If Hiss gave the papers to Whitaker Chambers, then something is all right; if Hiss gave the papers to Alger Hiss, then what happened in the Amerasia case and what other documents were stolen? This is too important to hush up for partisan advantage.

That Body of Yours

DIGESTIVE DISTURBANCES

A patient consulted his physician about a pain in his hip. As it was definitely sciatica the physician prescribed acetyl-salicylic acid (aspirin) and then asked the patient if he had any other pains. He reported a "tight" feeling across his stomach.

Examination revealed a mass under the physician's hands which was so large that the consulting surgeon said it was too late to operate or open up the abdomen for examination. The patient died a few weeks later. The pain in the hip was caused by a "second" growth from the stomach, carried there by the circulation. The patient was 51.

While there is usually some pain in cancer of the stomach, it may be so slight as to go unnoticed, until it is too late to operate. Because stomach cancer can develop "quietly" with little or no symptoms, physicians are now urging all patients past 35 years of age with digestive complaints to have an X-ray examination.

In the "Indiana" State Medical Association Journal (Indianapolis), Dr. G. E. Gates while urging X-ray examinations gives some startling facts which throw blame on patients and physicians for delay in getting treatment for cancer of the stomach until it is too late.

The average duration of symptoms before a visit to a physician is 6 months. The average time for the first visit before it is definitely known that cancer is present, is 10 months. The average time from the first visit to the physician to the time the patient is first consulted by a physician, arrangements were made for an X-ray examination there would be more chance of saving life. To be fair to the physician it must be admitted that ordering an X-ray examination before stomach tests food tests and other methods of examination have been made gives the patient the feeling that cancer is suspected.

"The most common complaint is that of a vague discomfort or distress in region of stomach sometimes with loss of appetite and slight nausea." The all important thought is that it is unwise for the man or woman of cancer age to neglect these signs. They may be early stages of cancer. Don't take a chance!

covery—that serving people of moderate means with goods at moderate cost is likely to produce far more profit in the long run than putting on too much dog at too much cost for the average traveler. There are lots of us average folks!

A man high in the music industry says that a youthful taste for the strange new jazz known as bebop should develop naturally into appreciation for more recognizable forms of music. That's a load off our minds!

One reason why there's always room at the top is that so many people don't believe it, and never climb up to see.

Little Waldo's Political Education

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Washington—No one begrudges the President of the United States a White House joker to relieve the strain of office, and General "Happy" Harry Vaughan is not the first to hold such a job. FDR also had a military aide, General "Pa" Watson, whose great asset was a gorgeous sense of humor.

However, "Pa" Watson didn't meddle in army contracts and backstage lobbying. Pa did put in his oar to get George Marshall appointed chief of staff, but on the whole he kept out of politics, and stuck to his chief function—relaxing the president of an evening.

General Vaughan, his successor, also has a contagious sense of humor which brings healthy relaxation to his chief. But the public has little conception of how deeply Truman's military aide has dabbled in things that were no business of his, and how powerful his influence has been in obtaining favors for interested people.

Take, for instance, export licenses. These permits to ship U. S. goods abroad have not the remotest connection with the army. They concern the Commerce Department, not the president's military aide. Yet last year, General Vaughan intervened in these matters which he knew nothing about to help the Crescent Trading Company which had been using forged export licenses.

The Crescent Co. not only had been buying licenses, which is contrary to regulations, but was buying forged licenses. The Commerce Department caught them at it and started an investigation. However, Gen. Vaughan, without investigating, wrote a letter on White House stationery, May 17, 1948, asking the Commerce Department to issue Crescent a license. Vaughan had never met the applicant or the goods, but nevertheless vouched for the company's responsibility.

In other words, favors were asked for the company which had violated regulations as against companies which respected the law—thanks to the jovial, undiscriminating White House aide.

European Cigarette Deal

If Happy Harry would profit from one mistake, he might be forgiven. But he doesn't. The general also went to bat for Col. Hubert Fountleroy Julian, famed Black Eagle of Emperor Haile Selassie's Ethiopian Air Force, who had been connected with the Crescent Trading Co.

Col. Julian wanted to go to Germany, and without examining closely into the purpose of the trip, Vaughan sent him overseas to inspect the treatment of Negro troops in the European theater.

Vaughan even gave the Black Eagle such glowing credentials that when he reached Europe, he was given a special military aide, had an hour's conference with General Clay, and toured the entire American zone of Germany as the guest of the U. S. Army.

Fearing the power of the President's military aide, American generals literally bowed and scraped.

Then, suddenly, the real purpose of Col. Julian's trip developed. He proposed taking over the army's overseas cigarette under a deal by which he would exchange a fresh carton for two old ones. The overseas cartons he planned to sell to the Japanese at an estimated profit of $5,000,000.

When General Clay heard about this, Hubert Fountleroy Julian was sent scurrying on his way back to the U. S. A. and to the man who sent him—Harry Vaughan.

Merry-Go-Round

Quiet, middle-of-the-road Guy Gurnelson, G.O.P. committeeman from New Jersey, looks like the new G.O.P. chairman. Having spent twenty years in the middle west, he is geographically O.K. and reasonably nonpartisan. In the clinches, he might lean toward Stassen in the twilight of fate, the Senate probe of the U. S. Lines' new luxury liner has been placed in the hands of North Carolina's Clyde Hoey, Senator Hoey is the brother-in-law of the late O. Max Gardner, attorney for the U. S. Lines. However, fair-minded Hoey will let the chips fall where they may.

Washington rumor has it that the F.B.I. is investigating two high federal judges because of alleged communism. Here is all there is to the story: Two judges are being given a routine check—Judge Charles Wyzanski of Boston, who has been quoted as stating that if he were called before the Un-American Activities Committee he would tell them to "go to hell"; and Judge Leon Yankwich of Los Angeles, because of some speeches reported to have been too "liberal" for west coast diehards. In Justice Department books, however, both judges rate high, and the F.B.I. check is merely of the routine type made whenever a complaint is received.

Judge Yankwich, a champion of the underdog, is author of the famous phrase: "There are no illegitimate children; only illegitimate parents."

Making Fresh Water Out of Salt

Little noticed in the congressional shuffle is a bill for creating fresh water out of ocean water, which might revolutionize the water supply of many cities.

Introduced by far-sighted Senator Joe C. Mahoney of Wyoming, the bill appropriates $50,000,000 to set up two pilot plants on the east coast and west coast to experiment with distilling sea water.

What most people don't realize is that fresh water is becoming an increasing problem in some parts of the U. S. A. In Queens County, Long Island, for instance, the fresh-water level is 35 feet under the sea level, so there is constant danger of salt water contaminating the fresh-water supply.

In Ohio, likewise, deep wells plus heavy use of water by industry have sent the water level down to an alarming point.

Distilling fresh water from salt water is done constantly aboard ships, but in relatively small quantities and at relatively high expense. If the expense could be reduced, and salt water could be distilled on a wholesale scale, the water supply for cities like Los Angeles and San Diego might be revolutionized.

Wife Picks Locks

Charleston, W. Va. (AP)—What does the locksmith's wife do when he is busy picking locks? She picks locks herself. That is, if she is like Mrs. Madelyn Judy, attractive wife of Charleston locksmith Reuben Judy. He likes to recall that shortly after their marriage, before he knew of her talent, he left her in charge of the shop while he was out on a job. Four allegedly pickproof locks were in the shop at the time. When he returned they were pickproof no longer. "A lot of people come into the shop with locks they want picked and ask for my husband," she said. "They seem surprised when I tell them I can do it."

President Truman Ignored Tradition in Naming Clark to Supreme Court Bench

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 29—President Truman decided to ignore two traditions of precedents when he announced the appointment of Attorney General Tom Clark to be associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.

First, Mr. Truman failed to recognize that the Republicans have only one man on the Supreme Court, while the Democrats have eight.

Second, Mr. Truman put aside questions of religious affiliation and did not select a Catholic to succeed the late Justice Murphy.

As Mr. Truman intimated at his press conference, there is no moral or political compulsion requiring that Supreme Court justices be selected out of any particular religious faith. For reasons best known to the President, he wanted Tom Clark to have the post. On the day after Justice Murphy died, this correspondent wrote:

"The chances are that the President will not act precipitately. If Attorney General Tom Clark wants the appointment, he probably can have it. Even though he doesn't fit the above-mentioned requirements on religion or region, but he would make a good judge and it has been customary for recent Presidents to name their attorneys general when there is a vacancy on the court."

Justice C. McReynolds, Harlan, Frank Stone, Frank Murphy, Robert H. Jackson all served as attorneys general before being appointed to the Supreme Court.

The fact that Mr. Truman followed this trend gives substance to the prediction that the next vacancy will go to J. Howard McGrath if he accepts the offer to become attorney general. He has served as a Catholic, which is as insurance in a way that if Mr. Truman has another appointment to make, this will take care of that particular problem.

The question of religious affiliation in this connection is usually discussed as a necessary, but when, in 1910, President Taft, a Republican, appointed Justice White, a Democrat from Louisiana and a Catholic, this was the first time anyone of that faith had been named as chief justice since the days of President Jackson, who appointed Chief Justice Taney in 1836.

The departure of one justice and the replacement by another always introduces a good deal of speculation as to the effect that the views of a new appointee might have on future decisions. Mr. Clark will be disqualified from sitting on some of the cases he initiated while attorney general but on the bulk of the litigation he will be eligible to write opinions.

While Tom Clark is a modest and unostentatious individual who doesn't make many speeches, his expressions of opinion tend rather to place him as a middle-of-the-road thinker. He is in no such stretch of the imagination a radical, but he has positive ideas on the need for enforcement of the anti-trust laws. Even in this, however, he has revealed a tendency to put common sense into the matter of prosecuting cases under criminal provisions of the law. He has made it clear that civil actions are far more constructive.

It would be fair to assume that Tom Clark will find himself alongside Chief Justice Vinson and that he will tend to promote harmony rather than discord in the Supreme Court. Tom Clark is not megalomaniac or temperamental but a serious-minded public servant with a considerable amount of candor and forthrightness. While he could hardly be called a New Dealer, he is not at all indifferent to the lack of social responsibility exhibited by various business men. Tom Clark will not prove an anti-labor or a pro-union exponent or advocate, which is as usual with a serious purpose and will endeavor to render conscientious service. If the appointment had to go to a Democrat from the President's official family or political group, Tom Clark represents a logical choice.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, July 28—As I have reported before, David Katz, alias Karr, formerly of the Communist Daily Worker in New York and a contributor to other papers on the Communist front, has been a "log-man" for Drew Pearson in Washington for several years. Katz went to Charles G. Ross, the President's secretary, early in 1947 and warned him that if General Harry H. Vaughan did not, by a "zero hour" cease opposition to a certain design that Pearson was trying to put over, Pearson would "blast" Vaughan on the air and in print. The public was not to know of the secret reason for this abuse of Vaughan, Pearson wanted a passport for George C. Vournas, a Greek-American lawyer, Pearson was trying to send Vournas, disguised as a journalist, to Greece as a hitch-hiker with an official economic mission. Actually, Vournas is a politician with axes to grind.

This was in January, 1947, five months after Dictator Tito of Yugoslavia had shot down in flames and killed five young American army aviators. Vournas had secret intentions to make his way to Belgrade. In the meantime, he had been the Yugoslav ambassador and Louis Adamic, a naturalized Yugoslav who is cited 37 times in the reports of the House committees on Un-American Activities.

Adamic is also a friend of Eleanor Roosevelt. She bled him to dinner at the White House in a conspiracy to hoodwink Winston Churchill and reduce his opposition to the plot which finally handed over the Balkans, the Baltic, Poland and eastern Germany to Soviet Russia.

The Greek Embassy and the Greek Orthodox Church in Washington asked President Truman to refuse Vournas a passport. Involved in a war with an organized Communist army supported by Russia, they believed Vournas was hostile to the government. He claims he never was a Communist. He says his brother John, or, anyway, was a soldier in the Communist guerrilla army. Vournas is on friendly terms with the Yugoslav embassy and the embassy was cordial to his plan to visit Tito.

The wife of David Karr, Madeline Karr (formerly Madeline Baratz, or Baratz, has had a peculiar career as a journalist of sorts in Washington.

For about 18 months Madeline Karr frequented the White House and has been named to her as the correspondent of the National Herald, of New York, a Greek paper. This paper, which is 35 years old, never had an accredited correspondent at the White House before. It has had no correspondent there since her assignment ended on July 30, 1947. Its circulation during her assignment at the White House was about 8,000. Under new ownership and with a Royalist political attitude as to Greece, it has advanced to about 13,000.

Madeline Karr also had access to the press facilities and privileges at the State Department. There she was known as Karr's wife and was known as Pearson's "girlfriend." She had professional relations as a journalist with officials of the Russian embassy. In 1945, she was listed by the State Department as a correspondent accredited to the organization conference of the United Nations at San Francisco, the beginning of Russia's cold war against the United States. For this occasion, she was also a correspondent of The Nation, the left wing butcher's-paper weekly.

On February 13, 1946, the National Herald asked the State Department for a passport for Madeline Karr so that she could go to Athens to cover the elections. This request was signed by David Karr, then the proprietor and publisher. Vournas editorially supported the Communist element in Greece and was a vice-chairman of the Greek-American Council, which was listed by Attorney-General Tom Clark as a Communist front.

As evidence to this effect, the United States G. A. Council for July, 1945, carried an article by Kostas Karavorgias, described under his by-line as a "leader of E.A.M.," which is the Greek Communist front. The New Masses, a Communist organ, had an article by Karavorgias, and a note describing him as "editor of the Greek Communist paper, Rizospastis." Vournas was otherwise shown in association with Communist elements in the United States. He is now in London.

"An eye for an eye," says the Old Testament, and down on the East Side these days there's a lot of talk about a big, sober-faced man named Tony Mirabella and his strict adherence to the letter of the Word. . . .

Big Tony, so-called to distinguish him from his equally big son, Little Tony, has been running a butcher shop on Mulberry street for 20 years and, in a neighborhood famous for its shootings and knifings, he has always been regarded as a decent and upstanding sort of gent. As for Little Tony—well, ever since he was old enough to pound a cutlet, he's been helping his pop behind the counter, and it's always been taken for granted that he would take over when the old man decided to call it a day.

However, last year Little Tony decided to become a prize fighter and began hanging out at one of the gymnasiums on Second avenue. And this, as far as his father was concerned, was pretty much the same as if his son had gotten interested in larceny.

"Do unto others" don't mean hit a man in the face," was the way Big Tony put it. But the boy refused to listen, and when Jake Palardino, a small-time fight promoter, offered to manage him, he quickly signed the paper put in front of him.

A week later, Little Tony won his first fight—a four-round preliminary at a small club on Long Island, and ditto the five bouts that followed, all set-ups looking for a fast ten bucks. Then suddenly—too suddenly, some of the smart boys thought—Palardino matched him against a colored boy who was being talked of as a contender for Robinson's welterweight title.

"Don't worry about him," Jake told Little Tony. "Keep in close and shoot for his head. . . ."

Well, it turned out to be bad advice. The colored boy nailed Tony every time he tried to come in close, and laughed at the couple of head punches the East Sider landed. In the first round he dropped him for a count of four, and by the end of round two Little Tony had a bad cut over his right eye, and his left eye was getting red.

The butcher's son was game, but the colored boy kept peppering his eyes, and along about the sixth round the fans started yelling for the referee to stop the fight. Two rounds later he did, but by that time Tony's eyes were pretty much of a mess and he had to be led from the ring.

When a doctor finally got Tony's right eye open, there was no light left in it, and after a few days his left eye began to dim out too. And though Big Tony cried when he learned that his son would never see again, he accepted it as the will of God and as punishment for sin.

But one day a customer told the butcher what a lot of East Siders knew—that Jake Palardino had deliberately overmatched the boy, given him wrong instructions, and had won $500 betting against him. And that night, when Big Tony closed his shop, he took a sharp, pointed knife from the rack—the kind used to pry meat from bone joints.

When the butcher walked into the Palardino flat, the promoter and his wife were in the living room watching the television.

"The Bible says an eye for an eye," said Big Tony, taking the knife out of his pocket.

"Don't," pleaded Mrs. Palardino. "He didn't do it for himself, only for me and the kids. Besides, he's only got a year to live."

Big Tony shoved her aside. "He's got cancer, I tell you," said the woman. "You can have his eyes, only wait a while. . . . a year at the most. Maybe then Jake's eyes can even do your boy some good. . . ."

All this took place eight months ago and, judging from the way Palardino looks, the two Tonys haven't much longer to wait.

Of course, Jake's doctor has explained to Big Tony that he can't guarantee the new technique of transferring the corneas of a dead man's eyes to those of someone who is blind.

But the big sober-faced man doesn't seem worried. As he puts it, "What happens is the will of God. But at least it will be like the Bible says—an eye for an eye." (Copyright, 1949, by Billy Rose)

Dewey Declines Bid

Washington, July 29 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has declined an invitation to testify before the House Foreign Affairs Committee on military aid for Atlantic Pact nations. The New York governor informed the committee he could not make the necessary arrangements. Chairman Kee (D-Va.) said yesterday.

As Pegler Sees It

Paris. He is an old friend or associate of Drew Pearson.

In view of the fact that the National Herald never had a correspondent at the White House before or since Madeline Karr's assignment, I made inquiries in New York. The expense did not seem to me to be justified.

B. J. Markatos, the present publisher and editor, said he discontinued her services two or three weeks after he took over in the early part of 1947.

"Why did you do that?" "I had the opinion that she was more left than I liked," Mr. Markatos said. "Her tendency was that way. Her husband was with Drew Pearson. I met Mrs. Karr only a few times when she was with Mr. Viavianos. He hired her. I know she was related to Drew Pearson's office through her husband. She went to Greece once. I believe Viavianos sent her. The revolution was definitely on then."

"Viavianos had political ambitions to rule Greece, and the National Herald was then pro-E.A.M. That means the Hellenic Association front of communism. Johannes Steel wrote for the National Herald the same column that he wrote for the New York Post."

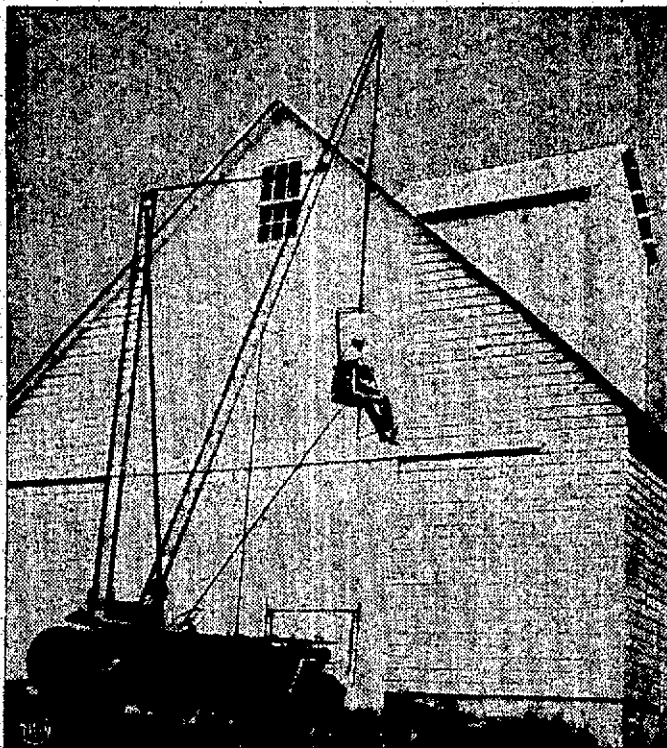

Steel is notorious for his associations and ideology. He came here as a refugee from Hitler. He is a so-called "Aryan."

When Mr. Markatos took over the Herald had lost $26,718.82 during the preceding period of nine months. Nevertheless Viavianos paid Mrs. Karr $50 a week for meager Washington coverage.

Mrs. Karr went to Athens in April, 1946. The files show that in that month the Herald printed only four of her pieces. There were two stories from Athens and two from Paris in May. In June there was one from Washington from a $50-a-week regular staff correspondent. There were two in July, two in August, none in September, eight in October, seven in November, two in December, two in January, 1947, and none in February. Markatos took over in March and discontinued using the Karr copy although he paid Mrs. Karr until July 30.

On that date, B. J. Markatos, publisher for the National Herald, wrote Mr. Ross at the White House that "as of today, Mrs. Madeline Karr, who heretofore has been attending the White House press conferences in our behalf, will no longer be our Washington correspondent."

Japanese Will Run Own Local Affairs

Tokyo, July 29 (AP)—Occupation forces will take a big step this fall towards letting the Japanese run their own local affairs.

General MacArthur's headquarters announced the plan yesterday. The army will begin reducing its civil affairs team in prefectures throughout Japan. Seven regional units gradually will absorb the duties.

The civil affairs sections have been the local overseers of the occupation. It's been their job to check on how prefectures (corresponding to American states) and cities have been carrying out MacArthur's directives. They have acted as advisers as well.

The new program is expected to release a large number of military personnel for other duties. Individual teams now have from 45 to 100 staff members. Headquarters said army civilian employees will be used as far as feasible to operate the regional sections.

Oswego, N. Y., July 29 (AP)—Governor Dewey insists that western European countries must tear down "silly" trade barriers if they are to survive. Western Europe's only hope lies in "economic unity," Dewey declared last night at a dinner of the Madison County Republican Committee.

Auto Mechanics Will Be Honored

Two employees of Martin-Moran, Inc., will be honored by Chrysler Corporation August 1 for the successful completion of the first 12 sessions of a continuous course in factory-approved methods of servicing cars and trucks.

The mechanics will receive certificates from the Dodge-Plymouth home offices marking the completion of a year of participation in the school conducted here as part of the Chrysler Corporation master technicians' service plan.

Certificates will be awarded to Charles Van Voorhis and Charles Schaffner. Planning of the program, which involves over 50,000 mechanics throughout the country, included counseling with selected dealer service managers and mechanics. The training course is built around a series of instructional kits, one of which Martin-Moran, Inc., received every month from the Dodge-Plymouth home offices. Each kit is devoted to a "tell, show, and do" presentation of a basic service problem selected from surveys of dealer requests for information.

For the "tell" part of the training session, the first item in the kit is a 20-minute sound slide film outlining basic principles of an automobile service operation, how to recognize the problem and how to make the necessary corrections.

In the "show" part of the session, large blow-up charts and all information as to procedure for the instructor is supplied, together with a list of parts and tools required for a demonstration.

The mechanic is then allowed to perform the service operation himself, representing the "do" part of the session.

Finally a reference book summarizing the entire subject is supplied for the mechanic's personal reference.

At the end of each service session, the mechanic checks his progress by means of a series of questions. Questionnaires, when filled out, are returned to the factory for review, reading and become a permanent record at the factory, acting as a basis for future awards of certificates to the dealer and mechanic.

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

According to old timers it is said, that the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association Convention parade of Thursday, June 21, 1928 was the longest, had the most companies and most bands of music, etc. According to newspapers of that date, there were 104 companies in the lineup with 60 bands of music and 8,000 or more men in the march. It was even said, that since the organization of the valley conventions this was the largest parade up to that time. Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy was the chairman of this mammoth parade and every detail was organized to avoid confusion. The men were entertained until the signal on the fire alarm was given for dress parade. At another signal, headed by the local company, they marched to the place designated for the formation, and another signal given when they fell into line and the parade moved on, after all the city had to take care of some 8,000 marchers and every so many guests at one time.

It is said, prior to that Chief of Police J. Allan Wood, directed a force of some 75 assistants, including a number of state police to clear the line of march of all traffic, even to the good old trolley cars, which were pulled into the barn. It being a very wide parade, it was able to move along without any interference to the full width of the street. This parade took some two hours and 15 minutes of marching time to cover a given point and it was strung out fully five miles in length.

The parade was reviewed at the grand stand by Mayor Edgar J. Dempsey, many city officials, officers of the valley association and a number of oldtime firemen of the Firemen's Home at Hudson, who were special guests that day. The sun hit behind rain clouds but the rain did not come till the parade was over.

The parade left the Strand, Hasbrouck avenue at 2 o'clock, headed by Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, grand marshal, and motorcycle police and also mounted State Troopers in command of Captain Fox. It is said, that at every street intersection there was a cop on duty. Also it is said each division was headed by mounted men in uniform. For instance, there were Mickey Hunter leading the Fourth Division on a white charger. There were only two hand drawn fire apparatus wagons of Kingston, one from Weiner Hose and the other, Union Hose. Those hand-drawn chariots were all shined up for this perhaps their last public appearance.

What was doing in Kingston in those days. Well you could buy a 1924 Chevrolet car in first class condition during this Convention week for only $94 at the Big Tent, Broadway, at the Armory. Harry Lazarus was managing the Broadway Theatre, "Why Sailors Go Wrong" was playing there. "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" at Reade's Kingston. Miss Amelia Eastart, the only woman who flew the Atlantic at that time, was wearing a borrowed dress and trying to do some shopping in London followed by an admiring crowd. The Hudson Day Line was stopping at Kingston Point, and Doc Stuber, his Turkish Bathing at Salter's Sanitarium at 61 Wall street.

Great highways where you breeze along—shaded narrow roads leading you back to the hills, or to a piece of water you want to see again—you'll take them equally in your stride if your Buick's in top-flight shape.

How about letting us put it in that shape for you?

Get one of our conscientious motor tune-ups, and one of our thoroughgoing Lubricate treatments. We'll put the bounce back in your motor—while we're taking the bounce out of your ride.

We do this well because we're Buick men. We know your Buick, we've studied correct factory methods for each operation, we know the factory specifications your car was built to. We use genuine Buick parts—even special Buick tools!

• Yet you don't pay a penny more for all these extras. Stop in this week, won't you?

The article referring to a young fellow who started out in life with one profession in mind. Later he changed to something else, and later on, in his fifties, he switched again. It pointed out that so many people get entangled in one job and are afraid to switch.

There was quite a group of us sitting around a table at the preview party given by Guy Lombardo at his new Long Island restaurant. Among those present was Tony Canzoneri, a chap who has not been afraid to build some new bridges during his life. Remember, back in 1930, he won the Death Toll Is 13,810

Chicago, July 29 (AP)—The nation's traffic death toll for the first six months of 1949 was 13,810—only 106 lower than for the comparable 1948 period. The National Safety Council, which reported the figures today, said that a five-month comparison however, showed that the nation's motorists rolled up six per cent more mileage this year than last, and the ratio dropped to 7 deaths per 100,000,000 miles of travel. No traffic fatalities were reported in 128 cities.

Whom Name First?

Dear Mrs. Post: Two hostesses are giving a joint party. One of them is married; one isn't; the married one is the younger. These are the essentials I think. Now then, whose name should be listed first?

Answer: Usually the married one is listed first, unless she is very much younger than the unmarried one. In the latter case, especially if the party is to be held in the house of the unmarried one, her name should come first.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post
(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

GUESTS SHOULD TAKE NOTICE

A reader is up against this problem: "I invited a young woman whom I don't know well except through letters, to come visit me (and my family) during the time of a big local celebration this summer. She accepted. I sent her train and flight schedules, and fare. Now she's written that she is trying to lure a new boyfriend into driving her and that of course he would stay at the hotel but be handy to go places with us. Frankly, this upsets my plans. It will be a great inconvenience to me to have this strange man tagging along everywhere. Is there anything I can do?"

The only thing I can suggest is to write her frankly that it would be very disappointing not only to you but to the men you would like her to meet, to have a bout of her own monopolizing her time as he would undoubtedly be doing.

Parents Announce Distant Marriage

Dear Mrs. Post: My sister is in the east and plans to be married there. She has written home, however, asking my parents to send the engraved announcements to a list she is sending. Mother thinks it will be strange for them to send announcements to all these people she doesn't know. She thinks my sister may be wrong in asking them to do this. Answer: Not at all. The names of the bride's parents should always appear on announcements whether they are sent to friends or strangers.

Goldberg Is Out On $40,000 Bail

New York, July 29 (AP)—One of six New Yorkers charged in a multi-million-dollar, interstate numbers racket was freed yesterday in $40,000 bail.

It is Abe Goldberg, 47, of Flushing, N. Y., assistant circulation manager of the New York Journal-American.

Another of the defendants, Edward Kane, 44, of Brooklyn, also posted a $50,000 bond, but it was not immediately approved by the office of District Attorney Frank S. Hogan.

State Supreme Court Justice Joseph A. Cavanagh turned down a plea for a reduction in the $100,000 bail set for Irving Blitz, 46, of Queens Village, N. Y., circulation inspector for the Journal-American.

Referring to Blitz' record of 12 arrests and two felony convictions, Justice Cavanagh said: "There is nothing in this man's record that warrants sympathy from this court."

He scheduled a hearing Monday for the six, who are among 17 persons arrested in three states in connection with the $50,000,000-a-year lottery ring. They are charged here with violating lottery laws.

In arguing that no reduction be made in Blitz' bail, Assistant District Attorney Alfred J. Scotti said that "top men in the underworld" might try to see to it that the defendants never appear for trial.

Meanwhile, the district attorney's office continued to question Dennis Doble, 39, registered secretary-manager of the Cincinnati Clearing House Association. Doble was flown here from Ohio Wednesday.

The surety bond posted for Goldberg consisted of two pieces of property owned by his brother, Selig Goldberg.

The district attorney's office said the properties were at 1237 Webster avenue, the Bronx, and 38 Florida street, Long Beach, N. Y.

The brother also put up a bank book showing a bank balance of $3,085.

Judge Is Asked To Reduce Ruling

Newark, N. J., July 29 (AP)—Federal Judge Guy L. Fako has been asked to reduce the fraud sentence of Constantino V. Riccardi, convicted over a year ago of transporting goods belonging to the former Mrs. S. S. Kresge over a state line.

The 63-year-old former California lawyer and Arizona dude rancher was convicted in June 1948, and was sentenced to 10 years in jail and a $10,000 fine.

The former Mrs. Kresge is now Princess Doris Farid-Es Sultaneh of Morristown, N. J.

The once dapper and smiling Riccardi had lost 35 of his 200 pounds when he appeared before Judge Fako yesterday.

His attorney, George S. Pearce, asked for a reduction in the sentence, based on the fact that Riccardi has returned the princess' belongings since his conviction.

He asked that the 13 months Riccardi spent in the Hudson county jail while awaiting the outcome of his appeal of conviction be dropped off the sentence.

The defendant was kept in jail pending the appeal because he was unable to pay the fine. However, under federal law the time is not counted as part of his sentence.

Fako said he would set a hearing date on the application later. Riccardi's appeal of conviction was turned down by the Third U. S. Circuit Court and the U. S. Supreme Court refused to review it.

During the court trial here, the government said Riccardi had induced the princess to give him turpitude from her Morristown mansion on the assumption they were to be married.

Restores Her Memory Through Hypnotism

New Rochelle, N. Y., July 29 (AP)—The past, which had eluded her for nine years, has been recaptured by Mrs. John A. Norton.

The 26-year-old housewife and mother of two small children was reunited here yesterday with her two brothers, Stanley and Ferdinand Kobalanski, of Braddock, Pa.

Until her memory was restored last Tuesday through hypnotism, Mrs. Norton hadn't even known she had two brothers, nor had she been able to recall anything about her childhood, her parents or her old home.

Now, she plans a trip to Braddock to visit her parents soon.

"We searched for her for seven years," one of the brothers said. "Then we felt there was no use looking further."

Mrs. Norton said her memory was blanketed out by amnesia in 1940. She worked as a waitress, came to New Rochelle and later married. She was never able to recall her past.

A week ago, she consulted Dr. Nathaniel E. Selby, a psychiatrist. Selby said he used hypnotism to restore her memory.

Unification Action Rests With House Today

Washington, July 29 (AP)—Final congressional action to further unify the armed forces and streamline their budget system rested with the House today.

The bill—a compromise between differing versions passed earlier by the two chambers of Congress—received Senate approval yesterday.

It gives Secretary of Defense Johnson greater control over the sometimes argumentative army, navy and air force and sets up a new accounting system—as suggested by the Hoover Commission—to handle expenditures more economically.

The measure also makes official the post now held temporarily by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

Any transfer of services is banned under the bill. That provision was written in after fear had been expressed that the marines might be absorbed into the army—or the navy's air arm into the expanding air force.

LL.G.M.U. Pledges $50,000 for Morris

New York, July 29 (AP)—Local units of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, the city's largest union, have promised a $50,000 campaign fund for Newbold Morris, Republican-Liberal-Fusion candidate for mayor, and his running mates.

In endorsing Morris yesterday and voting the money, the LL.G.W.U. became the first big union to deny support to Democratic Mayor William O'Dwyer and his ticket. The union's members are the backbone of the Liberal Party.

The mayor has a number of A.F.L. and C.I.O. pledges of support.

Judge Cashin adjourned the term until September 2 at 10 o'clock and directed the grand jury to resume deliberations.

At the opening of court Judge Cashin welcomed Chief Court Officer Charles Newkirk back to the job. Mr. Newkirk had been ill for some time. In his remarks Judge Cashin stated that he, as well as the district attorney, clerk and other court officials were glad to see Mr. Newkirk again in good health and back on the job.

Father, Son on Cruise

Captain Steadman Teller, son of Myron S. Teller, 212 Fair street, and his son, Dirk Teller, are shown aboard the aircraft carrier Boxer during a shakedown cruise. Captain Teller, commander of the U.S.S. Boxer, had his son as guest aboard on a five-day trip to sea recently. On Thursday Captain Teller was relieved of his command and will return to Washington, D. C. He will probably visit in Kingston before his reassignment.

Immunization . . . No Whips Used On Biller Lions, Circus in Tuesday

Nursing Committee, the Public Health Committee of the County Medical Society and the Ulster County Department of Health, is being conducted to ascertain how many children of the city between three months and five years of age have not received the immunization.

Of particular interest to parents of small babies is the whooping cough immunization. Each year many young babies die from whooping cough which could have been prevented had the proper immunization been given.

Workers have the addresses, names of the child, sex, birthday and parents or guardian's name. In some instances this data may not be correct or up-to-date, new families may have moved in. The parent is expected to give the worker the information as to how many shots a child may have had, whether the series was completed and also whether a child has had a "booster" dose. If a child has not been immunized the parent will be asked if the immunization is to be done by the family physician. If the immunization is to be done at one of the public clinics then an appointment must be made for the child.

While the immunization survey is officially scheduled to start August 1, some of the workers have already begun their work. The survey is to be concluded by August 12.

Area 11 is the only area not fully organized. There is need for more workers in that area.

Will Purchase House

Dr. Robert H. Broad, Ulster county commissioner of health, has contracted for the purchase of the residence property of Mrs. Helen E. Gray at 188 Pearl street. Mrs. Gray intends to make her future residence in Florida. Sale of the property was negotiated through Walter Canvitz and Daughter, real estate brokers of 243 Fair street.

Successful Fair

Woodstock, July 29.—Incomplete returns from the Woodstock Library fair which closed at 6 p. m. Tuesday indicate that more than $3,500, or $200 more than last year, will be realized. The amount does not include proceeds of a benefit performance at the Maverick Theatre Thursday night, which will be added.

Senate Committee To Rule on Bill For Foreign Help

Washington, July 29 (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee was called together today (1 p. m., E.S.T.) to rule on the fate of the $5,723,000,000 foreign aid bill.

At least three decisions are possible:

(1) Reopen hearings.
(2) Strip the bill of disputed amendments.
(3) Demand that the Senate consider the bill as it was in its original form.

Senate leaders said privately the best bet is the committee will agree finally to take out the five disputed amendments and permit the Senate to vote on each of them independently.

Supporters of the amendments are fighting this move because it would mean almost certain death for the proposals, which include $50,000,000 in aid to Spain. These amendments, it is conceded, write new legislation into the appropriations bill.

When such amendments are challenged they can be approved only by a two-thirds vote of the Senate. And none of the amendments is expected to draw that much strength.

The Senate sent the bill back to the Appropriations Committee on Wednesday when the measure became entangled in the Senate's own complex rules against new legislation in a money bill.

Other disputed amendments would: (1) require the Economic Cooperation Administration and the army to earmark about $2,000,000,000 for buying surplus American farm products; (2) shut off some aid to France because of alleged discrimination against Americans in French Morocco; (3) require E.C.A. boss Paul Hoffman to try to halt the destruction of certain industrial plants in Germany.

Boettiger Action To Be Heard Monday

Phoenix, Ariz., July 29 (AP)—A divorce action brought by John Boettiger against his wife Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Boettiger will be heard in Superior Court Monday.

Mrs. Boettiger is the daughter of the late President Roosevelt.

Mrs. Boettiger's attorneys, Francis Ryley and George Rend Carlock, said it would be a default action. Boettiger, former publisher of the Arizona Times, Phoenix daily newspaper, will not be present, they said.

Carlock filed an affidavit Wednesday claiming Boettiger's original action against his wife, charging mental cruelty, had been placed in default. His failure to reply to his wife's answer and cross complaint within the 30-day period provided by law was given as the grounds.

The affidavit said Boettiger had given written acceptance to the answer and counter charge of desertion.

State Cracks Down On Jobless Folk

New York, July 29 (AP)—New York state is cracking down on the jobless who leave their home communities to summer at the shore or mountains while drawing unemployment insurance checks.

State Industrial Commissioner Edward Corsi discussing the new summertime policy yesterday, said now — with jobless insurance claims at a peak — the Division of Placement and Unemployment Insurance of the State Labor Department is being more severe.

The division is requiring that applicants demonstrate the sincerity of their efforts to find work by looking for it in places where there is at least a possibility of finding it.

Jobless insurance payments, ranging from $10 to $26 a week, now are being made at the rate of more than 4,500,000 a week.

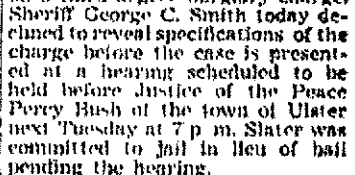

The action against the summer vacationers is an extension of the measures taken previously to clamp down on payments to New Yorkers who went south during the winter season.

Held for Burglary

Tracy Slater, 42, of Accord was arrested at his home Thursday afternoon by sheriff's office men on a third degree burglary charge.

Sheriff George C. Smith today declined to reveal the specifications of the charge before the case is presented at a hearing scheduled to be held before Justice of the Peace Perry Bush of the town of Ulster next Tuesday at 7 p. m. Slater was committed to jail in lieu of bail pending the hearing.

Colonials Trounce Poughkeepsie Chiefs, 5 to 1, Behind Cauvel

Lefty Survives Early Trouble To Win in Breeze

The pride of the North Front street merchants was about to take his lumps early and make a quick exit—as usual. But Larry Cauvel was due for a better night for a change and he responded with a neat seven-hitter as the Kingston Colonials turned back the Poughkeepsie Chiefs, 5 to 1, last night at municipal stadium.

About 500 V.F.W. night fans saw Cauvel survive a first inning threat by the Chiefs with only one run and then settle down for the best stint of pitching he has flashed since a group of North Front street merchants purchased him from the Bristol Owls.

Cauvel Rallies
Ere the customers had settled themselves in their humid seats, Johnny Morris and "Digger" O'Dell singled and Eddie Pasiska forced O'Dell for the second. Jake Charter doubled to left center scoring Morris but Pasiska was out at the plate for the final out. The Chiefs never got close to Cauvel after that.

The Colonials loaded the bases on starter Dick Underwood with none out in the second and almost came a cropper without a run. Matzer walked, stole second, Portmutter walked and Perez beat out a bunt. Matzer scored after Spozza fanned and Pluchino dropped the ball and was forced to make the play at first.

Winks Help Locals
Underwood's wildness contributed to his own downfall in the Kingston sixth. After doubling out, he passed to Matzer and Perez, he was stung by a run scoring single by Perez and then walked. Joe Spozza to load the bases before he was replaced by Joe Bellucci. The muscular right hander fanned Anastaet but walked Cauvel to force in the second run.

Bellucci pegged wildly into centerfield on Matzer's tap to the box after Eddie McNamara had opened the frame with a single and Mae wound up on third. Spozza's long fly to right scored him for a 4-1 count. The fifth tally was the result of a Spozza double and Anastaet singe in the eighth.

COLONIAL CAPERS: Manager Gabe Mauro and catcher John

Pluchino were ejected by Umpire Codgin after a stormy dispute on a ball and strike decision on Alton Thomaier in the seventh. For a while it appeared that Mr. Mauro would devour Codgin right before the mob. The Colonials have picked up Carroll Anastaet, former Bridgeport receiver from the Denver club of the Mountain League. He was returned by the Boss. Bellucci was charged with an error when his throw to second base on a force play in the sixth found nobody covering—at least not in time. Harry Hesse, former minor league ace and for years identified with the Bay Parkways, was in the stands scouting for the Yankees. Vic Stevens, the new Negro shortstop, is hobbled with a leg injury. After a game in Poughkeepsie tonight, the Colonials return home for a week-end series against Waterbury—single game Saturday and a Sunday two-night doubleheader. Saturday night is Freeman's Night. Eddie McNamara celebrated his promotion to the No. 3 slot with a pair of singles. Mario Perez came up with two hits and seems to be meeting the ball better. The irrepressible "Digger" O'Dell, now up to .277 in the averages, had two hits for the Chiefs.

COLONIAL ROUNDUP

(By The Associated Press)

The second-place Bristol Owls gained some ground on the first-place Bridgeport Bees in the Colonial League last night by downing the Stamford Pioneers 4 to 2 in a tight ball game.

The last-place Kingston Colonials took advantage of errors by the Poughkeepsie Chiefs for a 5-1 victory before about 400 fans of Kingston.

A league oddity was that Bristol and Stamford each hit six hits in their game, and Kingston and Poughkeepsie each got seven.

Bristol got all six of its hits in the first three and two-thirds innings, piling up enough runs to win before John Kohler relieved Lou Rosen and pitched hitless ball for Stamford the rest of the way.

The paid attendance at Bristol was 1,073.

Poughkeepsie was guilty of three errors against Kingston, letting in two runs which turned out to be enough to have won the game.

Waterbury and Bridgeport were idle last night.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

By The Associated Press

BY JACK HAND

Bring on the Dodgers! That's the cry in St. Louis, where the sizz-ling Cards, on an eight-game winning streak, welcome another showdown with Brooklyn for the National League lead.

Howie Pollet, the slim southpaw who coasted home on a 14-1 rout of the Dodgers last Sunday, draws the opening game assignment against Preacher Roe, whose seven-game string was snapped by the Cards a week ago.

The Cards warmed up for the Dodgers by smothering the Phillies yesterday, 10-2, for a sweep of the series. They roughed up Kenny Heintzelman, who had won nine in a row and forced him to retire after a five-run second inning.

Brazil Wins
Al Brazile, who might face the Dodgers Sunday, wrapped up his 10th win with a seven-hitter while the Phils stumbled through five errors, three by rookie third baseman Willie Jones.

Brooklyn drew hope from Ralph Branca's route-going job against the Chicago Cubs, 7-1, his first complete game and first victory since June 29. Despite his 11th triumph Branca probably will miss the Cards series in which Rookie Joe Hatten and Don Newcombe are slated to work.

Gene Hermanski's homer with three men on and the score tied 1-1 ruined Bob Rush in the sixth inning. Jackie Robinson and Duke Snider homered in succession off reliever Walt Duhler in the seventh to end the scoring.

Giants Move Up
The New York Giants again poked their heads into the first division, displacing the Phils with an 8-6 edge over Pittsburgh. They blew an early five-run lead but fought back to win on Sid Gordon's 20th homer with a man on in the sixth.

Warren Spahn coasted to his 12th win, beating Cincinnati 11-2, while his Boston mates put the slug on Ken Raffensberger and two successors for 16 hits, five by Ed Sauer.

The dependable Allie Reynolds, Joe Page combination pitched the New York Yankees to a 3-2 decision over Cleveland, splitting the vital series and restoring the Yanks' four-game lead. Page put down a Tribe uprising in the ninth with the help of a sensational BATTING — Gene Hermanski, Dodgers, hit grand slam home run and double in Brooklyn's 7-1 romp over Chicago.

PITCHING — Allie Reynolds, Yankees, teamed up on Cleveland for six-hit, 3-2 New York victory that restored four-game lead. Page saved day with ninth-inning relief job.

Sagendorf Hurling And Bating Star

A team of many surprises, the Chez Emiles called on Rodney Sagendorf as a hurler yesterday in the City League and the Hartwick collegian responded with a princely 9-3 victory over the Colonial Merchants.

The triumph enabled Chez Emile to take over undisputed possession of second place, a half game ahead of Morgan's Restaurant, with nine wins and three losses. The Merchants meanwhile were being subjected to their tenth trouncing in a dozen outings.

Harris Five-Hitter
Sagendorf, normally an outfielder or first sacker, pitched five-hit ball and struck out three batters. Ed Rybinaker, the perpetual motion man of the Merchant staff, gave up six hits but Chezzies bunched them effectively and used five walks to good advantage. Six Chez Emile errors kept Sagendorf in a constant fix but he kept Merchant runners away from home plate until the late innings.

A pair of four-run innings—the second and sixth—cemented the Chezzie triumph. In the second inning, Bob Gill's double, a walk to Vertetis and some sandlot tossing around of the ball by the Merchants accounted for a quartet.

Cracks Two Doubles
Again in the sixth, Hansen led off with a walk, stole second, and scored on Lowe's single to left, the latter proceeding to third when catcher Snyder argued with the home plate umpire on the play on Hansen and forgot to call time.

Lowe scored after Roe's fly to center. Then came Sagendorf's double to right, a walk to Glaser, a wild pitch and a couple of wild throws.

In addition to pitching effectively, Sagendorf was the only batsman of the game with more than one hit. He had a pair of doubles and knocked in a run.

Johnny Ringger Due at Rhinebeck

Johnny Ringger, 1947 champion in the midwest motor races at Rhinebeck speedway, will be back in the role of a stock car-racer in his first appearance in two years Saturday night at the Dutchess county track.

Ringger was seriously injured while testing a new foreign made motor at the Kingsbridge Armory during the winter season two years ago and it was feared that the extent of his injuries would keep him out of racing forever.

Leg amputations were feared because of 17 breaks in the legs from the knees up but after two years as an invalid, Ringger made a miraculous comeback. Even though the still needs a cane to get around, the racing urge is too strong in him and he is back on the race tracks in a stock car.

Canadians Bid For Harmsworth

Detroit, July 29 (AP)—Canada makes a lone bid today to take the historic Harmsworth Speedboat trophy away from the United States.

With a single craft—Miss Canada IV—E. A. Wilson and his son, Harold, of Ingersoll, Ont., will try to beat the best efforts of a three-boat American team.

To lift the trophy the Canadian speedboat will have to beat the three defending craft in two 42 nautical mile races. The first two races are scheduled to start at 5:05 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, today and Saturday. If a third race is necessary it will be run at the same time on Monday.

It is no secret that for the first time since Carl Wood brought the famous trophy to the United States in 1920, the challenging craft has an excellent chance to win. This view is based on unconfirmed reports that in trials on Muskegon Lake, Ont., the challenger was clocked at speeds ranging from 130 to 150 miles an hour.

The defending team consists of R. Stanley Collier's Skip-A-Long, of Lake Tahoe Yacht Club, Calif.; and Jack Schaefer's Such Crust I, and Horace Dodge's recently acquired My Sweetie, the latter two representing the Detroit Yacht Club.

COOL AND NERVOUS—Acting on the advice of his vice-president and friend, Charlie Grimm, Frank Frisch is trying to relax these days. "But we're in last place, you know," says the new manager of the Cubs, "and what I would give for a player like Terry Moore. How can a guy take things easy when he has to face one tough club after another, and, as you know, I don't get along too famously with the umpires either."

Two of last year's quarter finalists are still in the running and hope to enter the junior classic's quarter finals. They are Miles Schlapik of Chicago who faces Louisiana state junior champ Tommy Maynor of Shreveport, and Mason Radulph of Clarksville, Tenn., who plays Charley Strack of York, Pa.

Rotarians Get C. of C.

Figures on Kingston

At the usual weekly luncheon meeting of the Kingston Rotary Club, Al Kurdt, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, discussed the "Personality of Kingston" compared with that of many other historical communities. He told of the great number of visitors to his office and the adjacent Catskill mountain area and Hudson valley, and the fact that residents may be inclined to accept an unusual approval without sufficient appreciation.

He appealed to his listeners to publicize, wherever possible, the desirability of Kingston as a residential community, vacation area and industrial location.

Commenting upon the employment situation, Kurdt mentioned a total of 15,000 employed in Kingston, including over 100 manufacturing organizations, 70 wholesale distributors, 350 service organizations and a large number of retail outlets. According to Kurdt, the average income per family in Kingston is high and according to an index of the "quality market" by a recognized research organization, Kingston ranks third in New York state and seventh in the United States. The speaker expressed the opinion that employment opportunities for qualified individuals was a great deal more favorable than generally recognized.

Dick Chapman Reaches Canadian Semifinals

Saint John, N. B., July 29 (AP)—Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C., lone American survivor in the Canadian Amateur golf championships, meets young Laurie Roland in a semifinal match today.

The pair meet in 36 holes of match play. Roland is a 16-year-old high school student.

In the other semi-final, small but stocky Tommy Riddell of Montreal, who created the tournament's big upset by eliminating defending champion Frank Stranahan two days ago, opposes Toronto's Phil Farley.

Chapman, 1940 U. S. amateur titlist, yesterday won his quarter-finals match with Mike Pidlaski of Winnipeg, 2 and 1. Riddell defeated Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver, Canada's pre-tournament favorite, in a quarter-final match. Crowell, Halifax, 2 up, while Farley disposed of Allan Boes, Winnipeg, 1 up.

Hawaiian Strike Spread to West Coast Approved

Honolulu, July 29 (AP)—Legislation to end Hawaii's 90-day dock strike by putting the territorial government in the stevedoring business today appeared set for enactment Saturday.
C.I.O. Longshoremen countered with a call to spread the tieup to the Pacific coast.
A special session of the Hawaiian Legislature came out of a closed session late yesterday with Senate-House agreement on what it believes is a precedent-smashing bill: Government entrance into a stevedoring industry without seizing strike firms.
The measure would simply empower the territory to start its own stevedoring business. Hiring of any of the 2,000 striking members of the International Longshoremen's Union would be prohibited. So would use of the seven strike firms' employees and equipment "unless necessary."
I.L.W.U. stevedores, who struck May 1 for a 32-cent hike in their $1.40 hourly basic wage, responded quickly with a move to carry out their threat to extend the tieup to the west coast.
They approved a resolution calling on all maritime unions—Longshore and Seafaring—to prevent Matson Navigation Co. from sailing its ships from Pacific coast ports to Hawaii. Matson is the biggest mainland-islands carrier.
The Legislature's bill was labeled "Clearly strikebreaking" by I.L.W.U. Regional Director Jack Hall. He said the government would be hiring "scabs."
There was no employer comment immediately.
The Legislature went ahead with its bill after a committee of member lawyers said it believed provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act on secondary boycotts could be invoked. They thought this would apply if Seafaring Unions refuse to sail ships loaded by the territorial government if mainland longshoremen refuse to handle cargoes.

13th Century Technique
The present-day method of simplifying the installation of small clay tiles by mounting them on large strips of paper is very similar to a technique originated in Asia Minor in the 13th century.

New Catskill Theatre Signs Union Contract

Frank Hopper, local moving picture projection operator, president of Local 637, Theatrical Union, A.F.L., has announced that a contract has been signed between his organization and management of the new Catskill Theatre which opens tonight on West Bridge street off 9th highway at the entrance to the village of Catskill.
While informing a reporter that the theatre would employ union projectionists, Hopper said the movie house is the latest in construction with an air conditioning system and other conveniences for patrons, including a parking lot that will hold 500 cars. He said the American Theatre Corporation of Albany, Sam Rosenblatt, president, spent approximately $171,000 in building the movie house. The project was started last November.
In conjunction with the grand opening tonight there will be a special party for officials of Catskill and Greene county. Sheriff Milton O. Bailey will officiate at front door ribbon cutting ceremonies at 7 p. m. The feature picture for the first show is "Barclays of Broadway," starring Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire.

Aduchefsky Has Distributor Agency

Hyman Aduchefsky of 89 North Front street has been appointed factory distributor for the "Passing Eye," an instrument designed to help driving, he said today.
Labeled as the first passing mirror for motorists, the "Passing Eye" consists of two mirrors mounted on a chromium-plated arm clamped to the outside top of the driver's door.
In operation, the outside mirror catches a view of the oncoming lane of traffic and reflects this image to the inner mirror. This mirror is angled for easy viewing by the driver, passing along to him a picture of the road ahead.
"Passing Eye" was invented by Robert Stortz, a former G.I., who thought up the idea after he was nearly involved in a head-on collision some time ago.
It is on sale at many service stations, garages and auto dealers Aduchefsky says.

Two Men Held On Dope Charges

Schenectady, N. Y., July 29 (AP)—Federal authorities today held two men they described as members of a dope ring planning to operate in Saratoga Springs during the horse racing season, which opens Monday.
Charles Lee Reed, 25, and De Armos Arcadio, 36, both of New York city, were arraigned yesterday before U. S. Commissioner Charles E. Palmer. They pleaded innocent and were committed to Schenectady county jail, pending action of a federal grand jury. Each was set a $1,000 bail. Reed is charged with possession and sale of marijuana. Arcadio is charged with possession and sale of cocaine.
Both were arrested in Saratoga Springs Wednesday by agents of the narcotics squad of the Internal Revenue Bureau and Saratoga police.

Delegates Register for Convention

Was First to Call Department

DeWitt Barley of Accord, one of the oldest volunteers at convention, recalls the alarm he sent in 10 years ago when his home broke into flames. It was the first call received by the Accord company after its organization. With Barley are James L. Rowe, chairman of the dinner committee, and Jack Gascol, seated in rear. (Freeman Photo)

Firemen Open

Hudson plant in that village, was so well liked for his whistling that the audience called him back again and again.

The entertainment was begun on the stroke of nine by Peter Keresman, general chairman, who welcomed the volunteer firemen to Kingston. He introduced Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, who is himself a member of the county association and a member of the A. H. Wicks Engine Company in this city.

The mayor, addressing those present as "fellow firemen," added his official welcome to that of Mr. Keresman and expressed his wish that all visiting firemen enjoy their stay in Kingston.

Following the entertainment, refreshments were served at the Central Fire Station.

Convention Highlights

Prince Harry, pickpocket who appeared on the entertainment bill, is a man of no little courage. He picked a man at random from the audience, stole his watch, wallet and two tickets to the Colonial baseball game and apparently cut his neck in two (though later it was revealed unharmed). The victim was City Judge Raymond J. Mino.

During the process of registering the delegates and members, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy and Morton Finch, president of the association, took great pains to see that no member neglected to pick up his dinner ticket. When registration was completed, both went to dinner at St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Each discovered he had forgotten his own ticket.

No one person will know until the parade begins Saturday exactly what bands and drum corps will be in line. Hiring the musical units was left up to the individual fire companies taking part. Then questionnaires were sent to the companies provision was made only for indicating whether or not the company would have a musical unit. No place was provided for the name of the musical unit and, therefore, very few companies provided the committee with that information.

Centennial Hose Company of Peekskill will lead Division 2 as guest of the John N. Cordis Hose Company of this city. Peekskill will have 60 men in line, an American-LaFrance apparatus and its own 40-piece drum corps. This is a return invitation extended by Cordis Hose after they had paraded in Peekskill last Labor Day week-end in honor of Centennial's 100th anniversary.

Beer barrels made of stainless chromium-nickel steel last about 20 years, compared with about six years for wooden barrels.

250 Guests Routed

They decided to return immediately to their homes.

The Liberty chapter of the Red Cross collected and distributed clothing to those in need.

The Fieldston has a 32-room frame structure covered with stucco. It was built after another resort hotel, known as the Garden Lawn, burned on the same site June 10, 1939. Six annex buildings were not damaged.

The Weather Bureau said it would be "very warm" today. Highs of about 95 were expected in eastern New York and 90 to 95 in western New York.

Heart attacks attributed to the heat caused two deaths yesterday

In Albany, where a high of 94 was recorded.

In New York city, the mercury touched 95.2, then tumbled 13 degrees during a brief electrical storm. High winds brought down trees and wires and disrupted power service in some sections of Queens county.

One-third of Lockport, in western New York, was without electricity for three hours after lightning struck a feeder line. At McConellsville in Oneida county, a windstorm toppled trees and interrupted power and telephone service. Residents described the storm as a "real twister."

Several communities in northern Onondaga county also were without electric service for a time.

A sudden squall upset 14 boats competing in the Central New York Yacht Racing Regatta. About 50 sailors were pulled out of Skaneateles Lake.
